Tired of the academic debate and in need of some practical guidance?

With tens of reported decisions since the Court of Appeal decision in Mitchell v News Group Newspapers Limited [2013] (in which Roger Mallalieu appeared as junior counsel for the defendant), it is easy to get lost on where we are now. The panel will help you find your way, discussing the implication of the changes to CPR 3.9 and recent case law, as well as offering practical guidance on preparing supporting evidence and tips for avoidance.
